$15,828 Reported In Balance Listed By Water Department

Boyertown borough council was told last night that the water department has a balance of $15,828 on its books. In another financial report submitted to council President Robert Stauffer, the borough council said its balance was $1295.

The water department also reported that 13 delinquent water rent bills had been paid. They totaled $129.

In the monthly report from the Boyertown Community Center, Mrs. Paul R. Hafer, president of the center, said that more than 100 persons had used library facilities at the center. She added that the Women's Guild of the Good Shepherd Reformed church had used space in the center for meetings during renovations at the church.

Representatives from Metropolitan Edison company told council members that new reflectors had been ordered for Boyertown's street lights. They said the shipment is expected to arrive next month and installation will begin then.

THE COUNCIL voted to notify property owners to begin planning to install curbing along streets where they do not exist. However, no deadline has been set for curb construction.

The police pension committee was authorized by the council to institute an order for a retirement and annuity contract for Patrolman William F. Hoffman. Hoffman is the only member of the police department who is not covered for retirement.

The council voted to begin consideration of a replacement for Special Patrolman Michael T. Krysa, who has announced that he may resign from his post.

Thousands Turn Out To Vote in Election For Korea President

PUSAN, Korea, Tuesday, Aug. 5 (AP)—Korean voters, led by aged President Syngman Rhee, turned out by the thousands today for the first free presidential election in the short history of the Republic of Korea.

The President, who is expected to win re-election to a second four-year term, and Madame Rhee, voted before 8 a. m. The polls opened at 7 a. m.

Neither would say how they cast their ballots.

A threat of rain hung over the Pusan area but there had been no show of violence expected earlier at some of the polling places.

Korean troops were on the alert to ward off any possible Red-insured guerrilla attacks. Reports of a Communist plot to disrupt the election circulated before the voting began.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A NEW comedy act recorded a half-hour show on radio recently for submission to a big sponsor. "But there's no audience in the studio," complained one of the comedians. "How are we gonna get laughs?" The agent said, "Don't worry. We'll tape in laughs from a Groucho Marx recording." "But won't Groucho get sore?" persisted the comic. "Nah," the agent assured him. "He doesn't know it, but we taped in HIS laughs from Jack Benny!"

Songstress Kay Carrington (wife of Composer Arthur Schwartz) computes her day-to-day check book balance with meticulous care, but for some strange reason, her end-of-the-month figures rarely agree with that of the bank. Kay had a ready explanation for her December discrepancy, however: "I just forgot to deduct last month's mistake."

Announcement on the front page of the Springfield Eagle: "Due to the shortage of paper, several births will have to be postponed until next week."

Buses Ram in Texas; 29 Lives Are Lost

Wreck Called History's Worst

WACO, Tex., Aug. 4 (AP)—Death by fire and injuries claimed at least 29 persons today in the worst two-bus collision in the nation's history.

On a clear stretch of highway and with no other vehicles known to be involved, two Greyhound buses smashed together head-on.

Within seconds, exploding fuel tanks transformed the buses into towering funeral pyres. The heat was so intense that melted glass flowed in small rivulets onto the pavement. Some passengers were entirely cremated.

At least 24 passengers were injured. Five were missing.

WHAT CAUSED the crash, and the exact number of dead, may never be known. There were few clues to "why" in the rubbish-like remains of the big buses.

Counting the dead was a grisly task assigned to a Waco funeral home where pieces of charred bodies—here a detached foot, there a buried torso—were carried.

Scorched letters from purses, seared remains of clothing, luggage tags, servicemen's "dog tags" worn smooth from contact with once-warm skin—these also were clues.

It was about 4 a. m. (6 a. m. Pottstown time), with dawn less than two hours away, that M. B. Herring of Waco wheeled his big north-bound bus, enroute from San Antonio to Dallas, toward his home town. Over a slight rise on two-lane Highway 81 and approaching him, Billy Malone of Waco was at the wheel of his south-bound bus, enroute from Dallas to San Antonio.

Malone's bus was about 100 yards past the crest of the small hill when someone screamed "look out!" It was too late.

The National Safety council in Chicago reported that what followed—at least 29 dead—was the worst bus accident on council records. On Dec. 1, 1953, a freight train and a school bus collided at a crossing 15 miles south of Salt Lake City, killing 23 school children and the bus driver. On March 29, 1954 a bus plunged off a bridge at Passaic, N. J., killing 20 persons.

Greyhound officials said about 41 were aboard the south-bound bus. Late Monday they were checking all points on the schedule of the north-bound bus to determine how many were aboard. An early estimate was made of 20 passengers.

Malone and Herring, the two drivers, died in today's crash. A bucket punch, a cap emblem, and a driver's badge were the only objects found in the driver's seat of Malone's bus.

Highway 81 is a popular route between Dallas and San Antonio, especially for servicemen returning to Texas' many military installations after week end leaves. Many servicemen were among today's dead and injured.

"I hope I never see anything like that again," said Corp. Barney Harris, returning to Fort Hood after visiting his folks in Oklahoma City. "Overseas you grow to expect that. You might say, 'well, it's not my business.' But those poor people, asked for it. But those poor people, didn't ask for it. They screamed at me he is not yet willing to concede that the only solution for brown eyes wide with fright, 11-year-old Matilda Za-pulsky Federal law."

He added, however, that Eisenhower was impressed by a statement issued in Washington yesterday by 16 Republican leaders.

Tiny Monarch and Doting Papa

Walking the floor like any other father, Egypt's ex-King Farouk takes his seven-month-old son and successor, the newly appointed King Ahmed Fuad II, around terrace of his Isle of Cairo hotel. The playboy ex-king recently ousted in a military coup, has taken up a plush exiled existence with his family there.

Gen. Ike Endorsed By Negro Leaders

DENVER, Aug. 4 (AP)—A group of Republican Negro leaders today endorsed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president, saying his election in November would "greatly advance civil rights progress in America."

A delegation headed by Bishop Nichols of the African Methodist Episcopal church in New York called on the General at his campaign headquarters here.

The bishop said the group which accompanied him represented organizations with a membership of 3,000,000 Negroes, but he said those present were speaking as individuals and not for their organizations.

The bishop said in a statement that after thorough discussion of all phases of civil rights with Eisenhower, "we are convinced that the election of Gen. Eisenhower in November will greatly advance civil rights progress in America."

THE BISHOP added that in past that. "You might say, 'well, it's not my business.' But those poor people, asked for it. But those poor people, didn't ask for it. They screamed at me he is not yet willing to concede that the only solution for brown eyes wide with fright, 11-year-old Matilda Za-pulsky Federal law."

He added, however, that Eisenhower was impressed by a statement issued in Washington yesterday by 16 Republican leaders.

Uranium Scramble Begins in Canada; M's History's First

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Aug. 4 (AP)—History's first uranium rush got underway in northern Saskatchewan today.

Hundreds of prospectors spent last night in tents in the North's deep bush. At 6 a. m. (11 a. m. Pottstown time) the provincial government threw open for public staking an area in the Beaver Lodge country near Lake Athabasca, in the northwest corner of Saskatchewan.

In preparation for the expected heavy claims-staking, the government brought in an extra field force. This group receives the miners' applications and administers the claiming oath.

Theoretically, no prospector was to start marking his stakes before 11 a. m. But deep in the bush, where there is no competition for uranium hot spots staking was probably finished hours before the appointed starting hour.

ABOUT THREE years ago the Saskatchewan government gave three-year concessions in uranium fields to some 30 large mining syndicates.

These claims came open today on the expiration of the contracts.

During the three year period, the mining companies had to spend a minimum of $50,000 each on improvement and development of their chosen tracts which averaged about 25 square miles. Each was allowed to keep 10 percent of the tract. The remainder now is open to any man with a license.

Dehydrated Maine Anticipating Rain

By The Associated Press

Rain clouds moved toward parched Maine Monday night, but virtually no relief was signaled for the drought-seared Southeast.

The U. S. Weather bureau at Chicago said that fairly generous rain amounts of rain may fall in northern New England Tuesday from a storm which soaked Michigan and portions of surrounding States.

It dropped 2.25 inches on Mt. Mansfield and moderate rain on the tides of Lake Champlain.

Light showers were predicted for Massachusetts, which like Maine has been declared by the Government a drought disaster area.

And very light rain was possible in Kentucky and Tennessee.

MIGs Fire at Patrol Plane; 2 U. S. Airmen Are Killed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Two jet fighters with Chinese Communist markings jumped a U. S. Naval patrol plane over the Yellow sea the past Thursday, killing two of the crew but failing to bring the plane down.

The Navy reported the sky encounter in a special announcement today.

It said the slow American flying boat returned the fire of the jets, fought them off and then managed to limp back to the west coast of Korea with two crewmen dead and two wounded.

The Americans did not claim to have damaged the Red jets, described by the Navy as Russian-built MIG-15's. The Navy plane was a 200-mile-an-hour Martin Mariner on a routine patrol of the sea between Korea and the Chinese mainland.

Aviation Machinist Mate H. G. Goodroad, Jamestown, N. D., and Aviation Electronics man Claude Playforth, Cincinnati, were killed.

Navy men here said the incident reported in the official announcement was the one which gave rise to the Tokyo rumors.

Conferees in Pacific Agree to Organize Permanent Council

HONOLULU, Aug. 4 (AP)—Top diplomatic chiefs of the United States, Australia, and New Zealand today agreed to organize a permanent Anzus Security council before taking up the issue of relations with other Pacific nations.

In its first hour-long executive session, the Anzus conference agreed to annual meetings of the said and the group of about 900, three foreign ministers, with more frequent sessions of deputy ministers.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson was named chairman of this first Honolulu conference as the session opened.

The foreign ministers of all three nations indicated that a broader Pacific security program will be sought.

The conference has been open criticized—particularly in the Philippines—as leaving mutual defense programs in the western Pacific and Asia for sole decision by the Western powers.

Objectives of the conference, under the three power treaty signed the past September, were outlined in opening statements by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Richard G. Casey and T. Clifton Webb, ministers of external affairs for Australia and New Zealand respectively.

Webb, apparently replying to criticism for other Asian nations declared, "We also expect that the council (to be organized by the conference) will wish to establish some formal link with other states or associations of states in the Pacific."

Vanech Announces He'll Campaign for McMahon's Seat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Dep. Attorney General A. Devitt Vanech tossed his hat into the ring in a bid for a seat in the U. S. Senate today and offered to "slug it out" with anyone challenging an episode in his legal background.

The 36-year-old Justice department official, a Democrat and a resident of Stamford, Conn., announced he will campaign for the Senate seat left vacant by the death of Sen. Brien McMahon (D-Conn.).

Vanech came under Congressional scrutiny early this year when he testified, under questioning, that he flunked at least three bar examinations—in Washington, D. C., and Virginia—before finally getting a Tennessee license to practice law in 1940.

At the time Vanech gave his testimony before a House inquiry committee, Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) raised the question whether Vanech had "committed a fraud" on the courts of Tennessee.

KEATING SAID Tennessee law require a candidate for the bar to certify that he is a resident of the State and intends to practice law there.

Vanech insisted, however, there was nothing improper in his action. He said the Tennessee Supreme court specifically provides bar examinations for non-residents.

Keating later asked that the case be brought to the attention of Attorney General McGranery. In addition, the Tennessee Bar association said it proposed to investigate the case. So far, it has made no move.

In announcing his candidacy for the Senate today, Vanech told newsmen who asked him about the Tennessee incident:

"I'll slug it out with anyone who cares to bring it up."

Vanech said he had submitted his resignation as No. 2 man in dependency group "as of the utmost importance."

He said he asked Truman to accept States has given greater consideration to Connecticut and launch an deferment from military service active campaign for McMahon's seat.

Everybody gets tied up sometimes. What a comfort it is that we can tell our families when it happens! Think of all the worries a voice over the telephone can prevent—and think of all the pleasure that words over wires can bring.

Why can we all take the telephone so much for granted? It comes down to people—the thousands of skilled, dependable men and women who make telephones work. They're on the job around the clock—and they're as important to community welfare as the policeman at the busy corner, or the mailman on his route.

Identity of Bus Victims Sought From Fragments in Wreckage

WACO, Tex., Aug. 4 (AP)—Sorrow and sadness walked the streets of this central Texas city today.

The footpaths followed two paths—to the funeral homes and to the hospitals.

Relatives of at least 29 persons killed, at least 5 missing, and 24 injured in the half-dawn crash of two Greyhound buses gathered here from near and far.

Tonight the first few names of identified bodies were posted. But it may be several days, or more, before the list is complete.

THERE WAS little for relatives to identify. A team of identification experts could get only six sets of fingerprints from the charred remains.

In the debris of one of the buses, searchers found a scorched red purse. In it were letters addressed to Mrs. C. L. Tucker, Georgetown, Tex.

That was all until the Waco Times-Herald began checking Georgetown, about 100 miles south of here, by telephone. Finally they made the identification and learned at top. Other features.

Registrars Busy All Day

Mrs. Betty Hornak (center) is being registered by Mrs. Marie Carter while Mrs. Ethel Cleavey awaits her turn yesterday at borough hall. Mrs. Carter and 11 other registrars worked steadily from 2 to 3 p. m. registering 1271 persons so they will be eligible to vote in the presidential election in November. The registrars said they were busy usually from the time the doors were opened until closing time, but the heaviest period of the day was after 6 p. m. when registrants had returned from work and eaten dinner. (Story on Page 1).

Meeting Is Postponed By U. Pottsgrove Board

The August meeting of Upper Pottsgrove supervisors has been postponed until Thursday night.

The session, scheduled for last night, was postponed because one member of the road board is on vacation.

Playgrounds Begin Cowboy Week Fun

This week is "cowboy week" at the Pottstown playgrounds. Each playground will distribute cowboy coloring books and make paper cowboy dolls.

A highlight of the week will be the individual cowboy shows planned by most playgrounds where the children will wear their cow- boy outfits to the playgrounds.

At Jefferson playground there is a conscientious little girl who worked steadily for about two hours to help the leaders there compute points awarded to the boys and girls at the playground to qualify for awards next week.

She is Barbara Hill, and she spent all the time adding the points accumulated by the chil- dren there and posting the totals so that the boys and girls could find out how they stood.

AT JEFFERSON playground the children started working on their glass painting projects. The boys and girls painted jars and bottles various bright colors and then shellacked them to preserve the paint.

Working on the paint project there were Frances Hill, Betty Jane Herner, Cynthia Gregory, Barbara Hill, Bonnie Heck, Enoch Martin, Mary Lou Sonon and Shirley Mae Sonon.

Yesterday morning the boys and girls had the energy to play an active game of kick ball. Enjoy- ing the game were Randy Sonon, Barbara Hill, Sandy Bodolos, Bobbie Sell, Barbara Raden, Nancy Herner, Sarah Mae Sonon, and Mary Lou Sonon.

Tommy Misciz and Elwood Heck invented a novel game there yesterday. Each boy had a paper cup with an ice cube and simultaneously the boys would flip the ice cubes in the air to one another and try to catch them in the paper cups.

The only trouble with the game is that the boys ran out of the equipment too fast in yesterday's cow-bright sunshine.

HAPPY HILL playground was really happy yesterday when three new swings arrived to take the place of the ones broken some time ago.

Trying out the new equipment were Rhoda Jones, Willy Henderson, Grover Henderson and But- chie Jones.

In the afternoon the children worked on their crafts, making cowboy figures out of construction paper and attaching pins to them in such a way that the arms and legs on the figures could be moved.

Creating western heroes were Arlene Caulk, Laura Butler, Grover Henderson, Linda Caulk and Oliver Corum.

Other more active boys pre- ferred to play kick ball. They were Thomas Corum, Oliver Corum, Randolph Caulk, Richard Burdan and James Carter.

Samples of the arts and crafts completed by children at Potts- town's nine playgrounds during this Summer will go on display today in a store window at High and Charlotte streets.

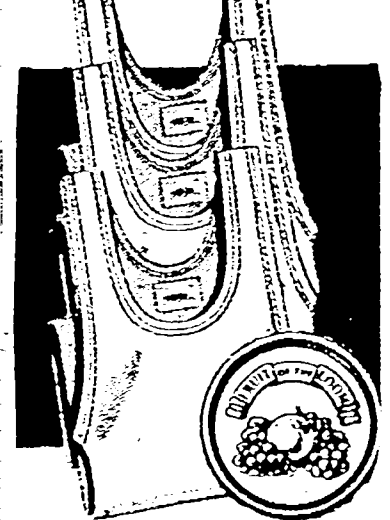

The work of the boys and girls will be displayed until Aug. 12.

A Traffic Aid Brings Danger

POTTSTOWN borough officials created a fine traffic aid when they erected light signals at North Charlotte and Prospect streets.

But they also set up a traffic hazard. This should be corrected quickly before tragic accidents happen there.

Traffic control signals at the North End corner should eliminate a great deal of danger. They should be especially helpful to foot traffic, including the large population of grade school age children who attend the Franklin school in that territory.

The lights protect a heavily traf-ficked intersection. North Charlotte street always is thick with traffic be-cause of its importance as a State artery. Prospect street had been jammed with east-west traffic because it shortcuts for many their way across town without going into High street.

The Charlotte and Prospect intersec-tion is a "blind" one for motorists enter-ing it from the west. Adding to bad visibility is a slight curve on Charlotte street, south of Prospect.

Many a motorist therefore has to edge his car's nose far out into the intersection to see if everything is clear.

The State guarded this portion of the curving street by painting a solid white line, which means no passing, along a major por-tion of the curve.

Now that danger is that the lights, the curve and a bus stop may cause serious accidents there.

Southbound busses stop at the south-west corner of the intersection. Bus drivers' habits were to just clear the corner, then pull over to the right.

That meant, because of the solid white line on the curve and no crossing rule, a jamup of traffic every time a bus stopped there. None could pass the bus.

The traffic lines up across the intersec-tion, and so when the light changes the traf-fic on Prospect street is stopped.

Many a person has been visualizing a serious accident at the corner when busses are obstructing traffic.

Some dizzy hot-rodder, or other mo-torists in a terrific hurry, will cross that white line to go around a parked bus. That may mean a crash. It may mean injuries. It may mean death.

The solution is easy: The bus line can change its loading platform to the middle of the block, at least away from the corner.

Borough officials can take care of this easily. Nearby residents and motorists will breathe easier if it's taken care of.

March of Progress

EVERY now and then somebody frowns on our slightly skeptical notion that science and invention are not always quite as wonder-ful as they seem to be.

We have suggested for example, that the zipper—when it gets stuck—can make a man or a woman yearn most ardently for a return to buttons.

Now with the full backing of the United States Patent Office we would like to point out that the zipper—even when in good running order — can be a very considerable nuisance to a woman.

It is mighty hard, we hear, for her to zip up the back of dress.

It is easy enough to reach the starting point of the zipper track in the small of the back, and also its terminal point between the shoulder blades, but the area between these points is said to be rather inaccessible.

To overcome this difficulty, an inventor has perfected a new tackle and pulley device which may, who knows, be come a standard boudoir wall equipment.

This machine consists of a vertical frame on which a runner is moved up and down by pulleys. On the runner is a little handle which hooks onto the zipper slide. For closer details, see Patent No. 2,604,242.

More interested in the philosophy than in the mechanics of this business, we only want to point out how the creation of one mechan-ical gadget has forced the invention of an- other.

As for us, we are convinced that women would be happier with buttons and hus-bands.

Wal, I see by The Mercury where they're going to keep the public out of that school hearing. Gosh, bet the kids wish they'd started harrin' 'em from school from September to June!

Adlai Stevenson pre-served a hands-off abso-luteness while being drafted by the Democrats. If this continues, the voters may turn the draft into a chill.

And say: Make the most of these pleasant Summer months, for in the Fall the air will ring with the mournful call of the wild duck and the frenzied cry of the political candidate.

Limerick Development Must Make Request For Annexation to Borough, Council Told

The proposed annexation of Limerick township, adjacent to the northeastern part of Royersford, where a housing development is underway, would be up to the property owners of that section, according to a report given at the meeting of borough council last night.

At the July meeting the borough had decided on motion to notify the borough solicitor, H. Over Hess, to prepare legal papers for annexation proceedings.

Last night a brief written report from the borough attorney said the first step for the borough to take would be to obtain the consent of the three property owners.

Moreover, it was reported the procedure started in reverse, because the movement should have been started by the property owners, should they desire to come into the borough. They would then ask to become part of the borough, instead of the borough asking them to be incorporated into it. Whether or not the section would be annexed remained a question.

PERMITS FOR building construction totaling an estimated $33,750 were granted, according to report of the building inspector. The list of improvements for which permits were issued were:

Harold Haines, 771 Walnut street, greenhouse, $600; Geoffrey Golie, Second avenue and Main street, porch roof, $150; Chester Scholl, two masonry type homes in 700 block of Church street, one with garage in basement, each $10,000; Catherine Tullis, Sixth avenue and Chestnut street, one story

Spring City Child Stricken With Polio; Arms and Legs Hit

Three-year-old Kenneth T. Hipple, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Kenneth Hipple, 409 New street, Spring City, was stricken yesterday with polio.

The child had recently been returned home from Phoenixville hospital where he had been under observation for a high fever since the past Wednesday.

Dr. Lola Reed, of Phoenixville, diagnosed the malady as polio and informed local health authorities who began taking quarantine measures. The child's arms and legs have already been affected by the disease.

Acting Health Officer Arthur Penrose instituted the quarantine. The Spring City police officer is substituting for Health Officer John Hanebury, who is currently on vacation.

Hipple's case is believed to be the first case of polio reported in Spring City in several years. Hanebury's absence makes an official estimate of the last reported case almost impossible.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bradford and son, Ronald, Walnut and Wall street, Spring City. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Boettger and children, John and Susan, 105 Adams street, Royersford, and Mrs. Tess Bauer and son, Buddy, have returned after spending the past week at Brigantine Beach, N. J.

AUXILIARY TO MEET
River Crest auxiliary 6 will meet for a mending session Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Harold Smoyer 538 Heckel avenue, Spring City.

REPORT OF THE borough treasurer listed a balance of $51,437.85 in the general fund. Balance outstanding in the sewer rental account was reported as $1646.17.

Tax collector's report listed receipts of $26,194.72 and an outstanding balance of $5703.12. The finance committee presented bills totaling $4445.04, borough account, and $971.79, sewer account, which were ordered paid.

Negotiations between the borough and Spring Ford Corporation for the company to discharge its industrial waste into the sewage system after the new secondary-type plant is finished were reported completed. An agreement was read and accepted for a five-year continuance.

Council passed on the required three readings an ordinance prohibiting parking on Main street, between 5 and 5 a. m. The penalty provided in the ordinance is a fine not exceeding $10 or 30 days in jail.

Youth Charged Reckless After Accident Sunday

Phoenixville police have charged Lawrence Costa, 18, of 506 Second avenue, Royersford, with reckless driving following an accident in that borough Sunday morning about 2 o'clock.

Costa told police he lost control of his car when he struck a service pole at Filmore street and Franklin avenue. They said skid marks on the road measured 50 feet from the pole.

Couple Return Home From Trip to Alaska

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Buckwalter, of 28 South Third avenue, Royersford, have returned home after covering more than 10,000 miles on a trip to Alaska.

The couple traveled much of the distance to and from the territory by rail. A short interlude aboard the Canadian cruiser "Princess Kathleen" was the only interruption to their rail journey.

The trip took the pair across the U. S. and over the Canadian Rockies to Skagway, Alaska, the farthest point north on their journey. They reached the southeast Alaskan town by narrow gauge railroad.

The Buckwalters made the return trip through Seattle, Wash., and then by rail across the U. S.

Police Headquarters Seized; Chief Kicked Out

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 4 (P)—Press dispatches said today that soldiers and a group of armed civilians had seized police headquarters in Oruro, important tin mining center, and kicked out the police chief.

El Diario identified the civilians as adherents of the National Revolutionary movement (MNR), the party which seized control of the Government of Bolivia in a revolution the past April.

The departmental prefect condemned the violence and said he was unable to avert it. Oruro was reported quiet today.

Employment Practices Left to Legislatures

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 4 (P)—Democratic vice presidential nominee Sparkman told the Richmond News Leader today the Democratic platform leaves it to "legislative bodies" how best to "assure that no person will be denied employment unfairly."

"All I ask a person to do is read and study the platform," Sparkman said. "You can't find FEPC mentioned in it and there's no word of compulsion."

Warwick School Has Rooms Painted During Summer

The biology room of the Warwick Consolidated school received a face lifting during the Summer, pupils who use it in September will discover.

For the first time in 20 years the room is painted. Supervising Principal Carryl Stauffer reported to the school board last night the room had been painted a light green as part of a renovation program undertaken the past two months.

The high school English room was painted a canary yellow with a white ceiling and the home economics room a light grey with forest green molding. The English and mathematics rooms also boast 50 new desks and window shades, too, he added.

The board approved the purchase of a new electric stove for the home economics room.

STAUFFER ANNOUNCED the alumni association will stage a festival tomorrow night on the school grounds to raise money toward its $100 scholarship fund. Each June it awards that sum to a graduate.

The school band will play during the festival.

Stauffer reported briefly on his attendance the past week at a three-day convention of the State supervising principals' association in State College and announced the school activities fund had been audited by the township auditors.

S. Coventry School Notes Big Enrolment

A record enrolment of 128 pupils has registered for the Fall term at South Coventry township school.

School directors last night discussed teacher assignments for the coming term and increasing enrolment.

Eight more pupils have registered for the Fall term than attended the school the past year. The largest grade enrolment was recorded for First grade. Nineteen township pupils will enter First grade, come September.

President Harry C. Symons presided at the brief session. Also present were George A. Weidman, Raymond E. Prizer and Mrs. Dorothy S. Detwiler.

Another 30-day extension was voted by the membership on the group insurance plan with the American Casualty company, of Reading, which has increased the dependency rate from $1.62 a week to $1.85.

The insurance committee is considering a change to another company, and requested more time to study various proposals.

The month-long negotiations between the union and the Firestone Tire and Rubber company are continuing in Cleveland, Ohio, although the present contract expired July 25.

The contract has been extended on a day-to-day basis while the union and company attempt to reach an agreement on a new pact.

Retirement at 64 Ended

forced retirement of 64-year-old teachers.

The Mercury has opposed the 64-year-old compulsory retirement on the grounds that it robbed the schools of experienced teachers and "fired" good teachers with many good teaching years left.

In May, 1951, three teachers were dropped under the 64-year retirement rule.

Forced to leave their posts at that time were Harry L. Smith, principal of Pottstown Senior High school; Peter J. Lawler, a Pottstown Junior High school teacher and a veteran Republican Councilman of the Third Ward; and William S. Dillman, vocational school teacher.

WHEN ROHLAND made the motion to rescind the 64-year-old's retirement plan, Reidenouer shouted, "Why do you want to start this all up again? I got a lot of gray hairs arguing about that before and it's been gone over and over, so why bring it up again?"

Rohland answered, "I think it's for the good of the teachers and the pupils to have men get in teaching posts who can do the job and have all the experience to do it."

"The majority of teachers are not for retirement at 70," Reidenouer shot back. "What do you say to the poll taken of the teachers when they voted against retirement at 70?"

Rohland replied, "I don't think it's right and maybe other things may have happened since then which would change the opinions of those who voted against it. Some of the teachers who have neared retirement age since then may be for the new plan now."

Roberts broke in to say, "It seems to me that it is a most retroactive proposal."

HE ADDED, "It is the most old-fashioned plan, I may use the expression, that has happened here in the last 10 years."

Yohn said, "But just because we want to raise the age to 70, does not mean that a teacher can't retire before that. He can still retire at 64 or 62 if he wants to. We only want to keep teachers past 64 who still are experienced men who can offer something to the pupils."

"You're penalizing the pupils," Roberts said. "How about a teacher who begins to lose his hearing or his eyesight. He just does not get the attention he should from his pupils."

Binder broke in and said, "There's nothing to prevent the school board from rescinding the contract of the teacher after he reaches the age of 62. It is not mandatory to retire him at 70."

"But we have no plan, no yardstick," Roberts objected.

"Well where did you have a yardstick when you pulled the teachers' Binder asked. "Only three picked 64 as a retirement age."

Reidenouer banged his clenched fist on the table saying, "I don't know what you fellows are trying to do!"

Thumping his fist on the table again, he shouted angrily, "I want you to forget this thing!"

SHAW INTERRUPTED the discussion before it became more heated and said, "This could go on and on and on. Does anyone have anything else to say?"

Roberts stated that teachers in Pottstown with 10 to 40 years experience had voted to make 64 the retirement age, and that he

New Contract Notices Area Woman Hurt Are Served by Lewis In 2-Car Accident North of Green Lane

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—New notices of work contract reopenings were served by John L. Lewis today. They raised the prospect of an industry-wide coal wage dispute before the steel mills resume normal deliveries.

Lewis served notice on the Southern Coal Producers association, representing about 30 percent of soft coal output, that his United Mine Workers will consider their contract ended as of Sept. 30.

In Pottsville, Pa., it was reported that Lewis had notified the anthracite (hard coal) industry of a reopening, with a Sept. 30 expiration date, in behalf of 75,000 UMW anthracite workers. There was no official confirmation or denial from UMW headquarters.

She was a passenger in a car driven by 19-year-old Carl Missimer, 599 North Hanover street, which was going south on the highway when it collided late Sunday with an auto driven by L. R. Rahn, 72, Allentown, which was pulling onto the highway from a private drive.

The 21-year-old woman had brush burns of the right leg and left elbow. A passenger in Rahn's car, Mabel Reentschler, 50, Leesport, Berks county, had back muscles sprained. Both women were treated at the office of Dr. George Baver, Pennsburg physician.

The front end of Missimer's car had $400 damage. The left front fender and door of the Allentown man's car had $100 damage.

cannot see the need for all this transportation."

He continued, "I'm all for transporting grade school children from Penn Village and if there's room for Junior and Senior High school students that's alright by me, but I don't want to add more buses to transport them."

The members discussed advantages and disadvantages of adding more buses to accommodate pupils above the elementary school grades.

Yohn said that the added cost to transport Senior and Junior High school students would not benefit the community enough to make it worthwhile to approve the bigger plan on which Yergie submitted a bid of $500.

"It's certainly true that costs are getting higher and higher every year," Shaw offered. "There's no question about it."

Binder seconded Yohn's motion and in a roll-call vote it was approved by the board.

THE DIRECTORS unanimously approved plans submitted by Doehler-Jarvis Die Casting corporation and the Sanders and Thomas Engineering company to establish extension courses from September until May on the condition that the companies make up the deficit in salary expenses after State contributions.

The State Department of Public Instructions provides the bulk of the funds for salaries and the companies have agreed to pay the additional expenses.

The school district will absorb the nominal expenses of janitorial down an offer to raise the playground surface at Rupert school so that water would drain away from the building, until other bids were received.

BINDER BROUGHT up the question of the proposed tax equalization plan currently one of the principal topics of discussion in borough affairs.

He said, "The school board cannot participate in the cost of the tax equalization plan because it is financially out of the picture."

The board voted unanimously for a hands-off policy on the issue.

The directors approved bids for work on the resurfacing of playground areas at Lincoln, St. Clair and Washington schools; asphalt tiling work and a job on the library ceiling at the Senior High school; installation of a football scoreboard at Franklin field; new shades for the Junior High school; and a cement floor for the Senior High school gymnasium.

The board also canceled a contract of $443 for the acoustical treatment of the Junior High school cafeteria and applied the amount of the contract toward the completion of the acoustical treatment of the dining room at a cost of $1743.

Buttons and Belts Are Out According To Jacques Griffe

By Nadeane Walker
PARIS, Aug. 4 (AP)—Jacques Griffe threw buttons and belts out the window when making his new collection.

Sashes or bands around the hips give a midly blouse look to his new clothes, shown here Saturday, and hooks have replaced buttons. Drapes help to cut the silhouette sharply at the hips, instead of at the waist.

Calling his new line the arrow (it slopes down from wide shoulders to a narrow hem), Griffe keeps his creations simple and sober.

SOME TRENDS that he shares with earlier shows include: lots of plaid wool, mostly in darkly colored shades; big plaid blanket cloth skirts; fringe-hemmed jackets and bodices; double-breasted jackets; stole scarves; Mary with small sleeves set in; heavy-trimmed tweeds; and stole-fronted jackets that can be wound in a variety of ways.

It seems that Griffe is sold on harem hems forever—they still go on his cocktail fashions. He makes big, stiffly flared evening skirts in bands of tulle ruching.

Of the major Paris houses, only Dresses, Balenciaga and Patou remain to show their collections next week.

Two important guests at most of the biggest openings last week were Mrs. Getulio Vargas, wife of the President of Brazil, and Mrs. SHAP B. Ridgway, wife of the commanding general.

Advice to the Lovelorn

"Home-Wrecker" at 19?

Alice—let's call her—and her mother disagree.

Alice's mother says that if her daughter ahead with the plan she is considering, she will be a home-wrecker. Alice herself says no; that the home in question is teetering on the ragged edge anyhow, and is certainly going to collapse sooner or later whether she has anything to do with it or not.

Alice is only 19. Has she the maturity to size the situation up as it really is? Is she right in believing that she will make a better wife to the man she thinks she loves, and a better mother to his children, than the woman to whom he is now married?

Here is her story:

"Some time ago, I met a man I liked very much and who seemed interested in me. We had become good friends when another fellow came to me and told me that Jim was married and had children. When I asked Jim about this, he told me it was true. We talked it all over and I said I wouldn't see him again. I tried hard to forget him but I just couldn't. Even though I dated other fellows, he was always in my mind.

"Then one day Jim phoned and asked me to meet him, saying that he had to talk to me. I did meet him, and he told me the whole story of his marriage. He said his wife goes to work from 2 in the afternoon until midnight, and leaves their children either with her mother or some of the neighbors, whichever will keep them. He said she doesn't seem to want to bother with them. She's always 'too tired to be bothered' with his problems, and he never can seem to talk to her about anything.

"I felt so sorry for him, and was so much in love with him, that I agreed to date him again, and since then we've dated every chance we've had. At first, he said he wouldn't leave his wife because of the children. He himself came from a broken home, and he doesn't want that to happen to his own children. But lately, he seems to have reconsidered, and says now that he would leave his wife and marry me.

"Our only real trouble comes with my mother. She says it is wrong, under any circumstances, for me to have anything to do with this man because he is married. I know she would be angry with me if I went ahead and married him without her permission, and I cannot get married without her consent in my state, since I'm only 19. She says, 'I would be breaking up a home just as much as though he and his wife were happily married. Another of her arguments is that if he'd leave his wife now, he'd do the same to me some time, but I know he wouldn't, if I made a real home for him and the children, which his wife hasn't done.

"Since I sincerely believe he and his wife will part anyhow, would it be wrong for me to consent to marry him and have him divorce his wife for me?"

I would not say, categorically, that it would be wrong for this girl to tell him she would marry him. But I think there are some things to be considered before it could be said that it is definitely right.

For one thing, I would want to know why Jim's wife is working. Is she doing it because the added financial help is needed for the home in which there are two young children to be brought up? Or is it merely because she is bored with being a home-maker and mother? In other words, it is important to make sure whether or not Jim's side of the story is completely fair. I would also want to

Some lipstick and rouge stains come out in regular laundering, but others need a special treatment. For a stubborn stain on washable material, rub vaseline or glycerine into the stain, then launder in the usual way, suggests Mrs. Della Short, home economics extension representative of Montgomery county.

If a lipstick stain is not removed before laundering, it may be necessary to use a bleach. Sponge the spot with a sodium perborate-peroxide solution (one teaspoon sodium perborate to one pint peroxide). Rinse well in clear water. If the stain remains, repeat the sponging and rinsing several times. When this treatment is not effective, sprinkle the dampened area with dry sodium perborate and let stand for a half hour, then rinse well. Be sure the fabric is colorfast before using a bleach.

On non-washable fabrics, rub vaseline or lard into the stain, then sponge with carbon tetrachloride. If a trace of color remains, sponge with denatured alcohol. For acetate and colored fabrics, dilute the alcohol (one part alcohol to two parts water).

You can remove nail polish from any fabric except acetate if you sponge the stain with acetone or a nail polish remover. Because acetone will dissolve acetate, Mrs. Short suggests this treatment: Wet the stain with carbon tetrachloride, then apply a drop of banana oil and brush lightly with a soft cloth.

Singapore Swim Club To Open to Asian Guests

SINGAPORE, Tuesday, Aug. 5 —The Singapore Swimming Club, until now exclusively European, will be open to Asian guests for the first time tonight.

The decision obviously was taken as an aftermath of the resignation of the Kuala Lumpur Lake club's committee the past month. The committee resigned after being accused of insulting the sultan of Selangor State, who was barred from the St. George's Day dinner at the club.

The Singapore club voted to receive guests of any nationality on the first Tuesday of each month.

I know she would be angry with me if I went ahead and married him without her permission, and I cannot get married without her consent in my state, since I'm only 19. She says, 'I would be breaking up a home just as much as though he and his wife were happily married. Another of her arguments is that if he'd leave his wife now, he'd do the same to me some time, but I know he wouldn't, if I made a real home for him and the children, which his wife hasn't done.

"Since I sincerely believe he and his wife will part anyhow, would it be wrong for me to consent to marry him and have him divorce his wife for me?"

I would not say, categorically, that it would be wrong for this girl to tell him she would marry him. But I think there are some things to be considered before it could be said that it is definitely right.

For one thing, I would want to know why Jim's wife is working. Is she doing it because the added financial help is needed for the home in which there are two young children to be brought up? Or is it merely because she is bored with being a home-maker and mother? In other words, it is important to make sure whether or not Jim's side of the story is completely fair. I would also want to

Choose Accessories In Home With Care For 'Finished Look'

The trouble with most people who furnish a home is that they concentrate on the big things and let the little things go to pot.

And it is the little things—interesting decorative home accessories—that help make your home charming, says designer George Briard. He explains:

"Why can't women give as much thought to the little extras in the home as they do to their accessories in the fashion field—gloves, shoes, bags, belts and jewelry? Many just pick up lamps, wastebaskets, ash trays, cigarette boxes and other items without any regard for their importance in color and relationship to the total composition of the room."

A GOOD PAINTING, says artist Briard, has interesting composition, good design and color. These same factors should govern the well-designed room—it must have a predominating tone and all the details should be subordinated to it.

Lipstick Stain Removal Is Easy With Directions

Some lipstick and rouge stains come out in regular laundering, but others need a special treatment. For a stubborn stain on washable material, rub vaseline or glycerine into the stain, then launder in the usual way, suggests Mrs. Della Short, home economics extension representative of Montgomery county.

If a lipstick stain is not removed before laundering, it may be necessary to use a bleach. Sponge the spot with a sodium perborate-peroxide solution (one teaspoon sodium perborate to one pint peroxide). Rinse well in clear water. If the stain remains, repeat the sponging and rinsing several times. When this treatment is not effective, sprinkle the dampened area with dry sodium perborate and let stand for a half hour, then rinse well. Be sure the fabric is colorfast before using a bleach.

On non-washable fabrics, rub vaseline or lard into the stain, then sponge with carbon tetrachloride. If a trace of color remains, sponge with denatured alcohol. For acetate and colored fabrics, dilute the alcohol (one part alcohol to two parts water).

You can remove nail polish from any fabric except acetate if you sponge the stain with acetone or a nail polish remover. Because acetone will dissolve acetate, Mrs. Short suggests this treatment: Wet the stain with carbon tetrachloride, then apply a drop of banana oil and brush lightly with a soft cloth.
